Airport funds are within grasp

Stanhope Township Council is optimistic that the long-awaited funding for upgrading of the municipal airport may finally be within grasp after meeting with a representative of Transport Canada at last Wednesday's council meeting.

Contacted Thursday, Reeve Harry Davis said the tone of the meeting was "very encouraging". Although the Transport Canada representative, Rene Veneau, is not the one to make the decision whether funds will be granted, his recommendation will carry some weight. And according to Davis, Veneau left council with a positive feeling about it.

The municipality has applied for close to $1-million in funding to have the runways at the 20-year-old airport paved. It is expected that this upgrading will accommodate larger aircraft and encourage more usage of the airport. In addition, the paving will lengthen the serviceable season to 12 months and improve safety conditions.

Veneau was at Wednesday's meeting to discuss the environmental assessment report, which has been given approval to go ahead. While completion of this study is the final hurdle to be crossed before actual funding for work can be granted, Davis says it should not hold up the process. Funding can be approved subject to the outcome of the environmental assessment study, he said.

Davis says the lengthy struggle to secure the funding has at times been

Two-tier levy proposed for Haliburton BIA

With a strong showing of support at a meeting last Monday, Haliburton Village is moving ahead with plans to form a Business Improvement Area.

With representatives from the downtown core as well as outlying business areas, a newly-formed committee will be testing the waters to determine where the areas of support for the move are before drafting boundaries for the BIA. The committee will be contacting business owners to provide them with information and find out if they are in support of the move. And once this is completed, proposed boundaries of the area to be designated will be drawn.

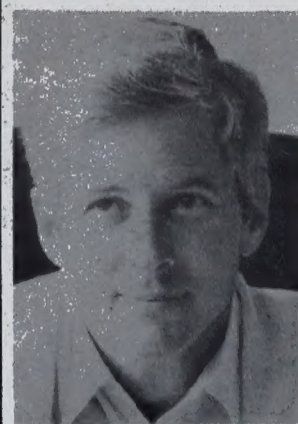

One of the main fears expressed at Tuesday's information meeting at the Dysart arena was the creation of a rift between businesses within the BIA and those outside. In an effort to avert this danger, the committee will be investigating the possibility of encompassing as much of the village's business areas as possible in the BIA and setting up a two-tiered tax structure. This system would allow businesses outside the downtown core to participate in the BIA without being required to pay for things that will not

Principal declines board's offer

Andrew Hemphill

HHSS Principal Andrew Hemphill has declined an offer from the Haliburton County Board of Education to assume the post at the high school on a permanent basis. The offer was made by the board earlier this month. Mr. Hemphill's response was received at the board meeting this past Tuesday.

Mr. Hemphill said he was not accepting the board's offer because of what he described as personal reasons. He suggested it was also a little early to make a decision regarding his plans following the end of the current school year.

The HHSS principal came to the high school two and a half years ago on a three year agreement with the Scarborough Board of Education. At the time, there was an understanding that after the three year term, he could return to the Toronto area board, where he had worked as a vice-principal.

Newly elected chairman of the Board of Education, Lynn Craigmyle, said he was sorry Mr. Hemphill had not accepted the board's offer. The chairman said the principal was admired by the members of the board. He said he had always put the needs of the students first at the school. "We'll be sorry to see him go."

Craigmyle noted the board would likely decide at the January meeting the procedure to be used to find a replacement for the principal.

Hyland Crest administrator resigns

Karl Samuelson

Just more than a year after accepting the position of Administrator at Hyland Crest, Karl Samuelson has offered his resignation to Haliburton County Council.

Contacted Friday, Samuelson confirmed that he will be leaving the area to move to another part of the province. He refused to elaborate on his reasons for leaving until his resignation is dealt with at the next County Council meeting this Wednesday. He said he will continue working at Hyland Crest for a few more weeks before moving on.

County Warden, Murray Fearrey said the resignation comes as a surprise. He said he had no indication until Samuelson called him last Tuesday. Fearrey said he is sorry to learn of Samuelson's plans to leave. "I think you have to say when a person is doing a job for you, you hate to seem them go."

Samuelson faced a bit of a rocky road when he first started at the job.

County Council dismissed him a few months after he was hired for applying elsewhere for work without council's consent. However, he subsequently rehired.

Fearrey said that this incident had no bearing on Samuelson's decision to leave Hyland Crest.

Minden B.I.A. presents

CHRISTMAS

in the village

a celebration of the Christmas tradition in Minden

It may have not been "dashing through the snow" Saturday afternoon, but that didn't reduce the fun of riders taking advantage of the free horse-drawn wagon rides through downtown Minden. The rides are sponsored by the community's BIA with Paul Aggett and his Belgian horse. Downtown streets rang with the sounds of Christmas carols Saturday afternoon as members of the United Church choir brought the sounds of the season to the Village Green. Some of the members of the choir can be seen at the left.

Dashing through the snow

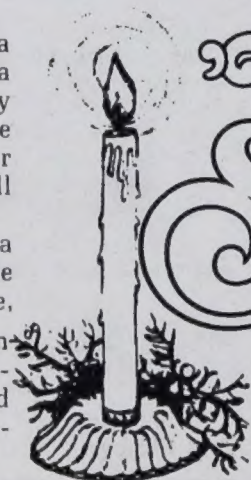

Kids! and adults too. Enjoy the fun of a horse-drawn sleigh ride every Saturday in downtown Minden. Jump aboard the hay covered wagon and tour the village streets as the jingle of sleigh bells brings back visions of old time Christmas traditions.

Look for the team and wagon each Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The rides are free.

One Little Candle

For years, the simple candle has served as a symbol for mankind. The single candle has been a beacon of hope, celebration and love. Particularly at this time of the year, the bright flame of the candle cuts through the darkness of the long winter nights creating a warm and inviting haven for all who share its glow.

Minden and area residents are invited to be a part of this Christmas tradition by placing a candle in their windows. Through a special purchase, single electric candles are available at downtown-Minden stores. It is hoped that residents throughout the area will purchase one of these candles and display it prominently in a window during Christmas in the Village.

'TIS THE SEASON

Minden workers get 5% pay hike

Contract negotiations between municipal employees and the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden have been concluded and an average pay increase of about five per cent has been approved.

At last Thursday's council meeting, a bylaw setting the rates of pay for municipal employees passed through three readings and will be incorporated.

Township council members also approved a pay hike for themselves, amounting to a $500 increase for each member. The annual remuneration scale for council members is now as follows: Reeve, $4,955; Deputy Reeve, $4,360; and councillors, $3,900. In addition, council members receive expense accounts of $2,250 for Reeve, $1,960 for Deputy Reeve, and $1,700 for councillors.

Leased typewriters suggested

The Haliburton County Board of Education is looking into the possibility of leasing 36 new typewriters to replace the troublesome machines now being used at the high school.

At last Tuesday's board meeting, HHSS teacher Doug Mitchell described an attractive lease package for typewriters that is available until the middle of the month. He told the board that the present machines have been constantly breaking down, causing the students to lack confidence in their own abilities.

Although the machines were expected to last about seven years, Mitchell said the five-year-old Olivetti typewriters "have not proven to be too satisfactory".

To replace these, Mitchell said it would be "financially advantageous" to get in on a five-year lease offer being made by Olympia. The price of leasing the machines amounts to slightly more than the purchase price and would include regular maintenance. It will have cost the board $26,125 after five years to lease the 36 typewriters. At that point they will also own the machines.

Although it sounds like a good deal, the board directed business administrator Jim Bradley to first get some quotes on comparable machines from other companies. Because of the short time remaining on Olympia's lease offer, the board authorized Bradley to decide which route to take.

The Haliburton County Board of Education honoured trustees Ross Anderson and Len Salvatori with plaques in recognition of 25 years of service to the board. The presentations were made prior to last week's board meeting, which was the final meeting of the year.

Minden council debates free rent

Establishing some sort of policy to deal with all the requests for free rental of the Minden Community Centre is one of the first things Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships Council will be dealing with in the new year.

Over the past few months, council has been debating what should be done with all the requests to have the rental fees waived, and the topic was raised again last Thursday when council dealt with two more requests.

"Over half the things that go on in that arena, we waive the rent," said Reeve Sinc Nesbitt. However, since it is mainly service clubs that are asking for the free rent, it is hard to just cut it off. "The problem is, who do you pick on?" asked Nesbitt.

Deputy Reeve Bern Berry noted that at least one organization has been making a profit at the bar while also getting free rent. To this, Councillor Bob Sisson replied that rent should not be waived in the groups who are making a profit.

"All the people that ask for grants are good units that the township needs, but it's mounting," said Berry. Councillor Verne Graham agreed that something has to be done, but insisted that the new year is the time to do it.

Council passed a resolution to waive the rent for the Horticultural Society. And in a split vote, with councillors Berry and Sisson opposing, a resolution to waive the rent for Royal Canadian Legion's Remembrance Day Ceremonies was passed.

Craigmyle new board chairman

The new Chairman for the Haliburton County Board of Education is Lynn Craigmyle, who was selected to replace Dave Villard at the start of last Tuesday's meeting.

Craigmyle, who is now into his sixth year as a trustee on the board, was acclaimed to the position. Accepting the gavel from Villard, he thanked all the trustees for their confidence. He is serving his second term as representative for Dysart et al Townships and was vice chairman last year.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Trustee Wendy Ladurantaye was chosen to be the vice chairman for this final year of the board's three-year term.

Happy Holidays

In the rush of events, we tend to overlook the important friendships that are the true basis of business relationships. One of the great pleasures of the Holiday Season is the opportunity to exchange greetings with those whose friendship and goodwill are valued so highly.

In this spirit it is a pleasure to say 'Thank You' and extend sincere appreciation for the very pleasant association enjoyed with you.

May a bright and prosperous New Year bring happiness to you and to yours.

The steps being taken to form a Business Improvement Area in Haliburton Village are an encouraging sign that the merchants and business people will be able to keep up with the pace of the growing development in the village. However, last week's presentation by the Ministry of Housing's BIA expert Clint Collier was littered with the all-too-familiar traps that all BIA's seem to fall into.

More than once, the phrases 'interlocking bricks' and 'facade study' were dropped by Collier as he explained what a BIA is all about. While outlining the merits of a BIA to the village, Collier did not miss the opportunity to plant these ideas into the listening ears of the local merchants.

It doesn't take a detective to spot a municipality that has a BIA in place. They all look the same, with the interlocking brick sidewalks and with their islands protruding out into the roadway consuming valuable parking space. At first this concept was quite unique and made for a beautiful downtown area. However, with more and more municipalities following the advice of the BIA experts, the novelty has worn off. The streetscapes all look the same. The only thing setting them apart from one another is the 'logo' that the experts recommend every village to develop.

Haliburton already has a very pretty business area, and with a united effort by the merchants it could be that much better. It would be a shame if the village gave up its unique styling to become another clone of all the other BIA municipalities in the province by following the experts' advice.

A BIA could be a tremendous asset to the Village of Haliburton. It can be the bond that ties all the merchants together in various promotions as well as improvements to business district. However, the tunnel vision of the experts who are so anxious to push 'interlocking bricks' on every municipality in the province, should be accepted with a grain of salt.

I wish to convey sincere thanks to the Minden Lions and Lioness Club for their generosity during this Christmas season.

The Lions recently donated one hundred and fifty dollars to Hyland Crest for the purchase of new decorations. Naturally, the new decorations augment the Christmas flavour in the Home. The Lioness Club has been busy preparing candy and fruit baskets for the residents. Interestingly, the cost of preparing the baskets was made possible from the proceeds of another marvellous deed - the recent bus trip for seniors to Oshawa. I understand the day was thoroughly enjoyed by those who took advantage of the marvellous trip.

The above examples of service to our seniors clearly show that the Minden Lions and Lioness Club are tremendous assets to the community. Their dedication and creativity is simply admirable. Merry Christmas to each of you from all of us at Hyland Crest!

Bah, humbug!

by Arthur Black

So, we're into December, which is to say prime Grinch Season ... as in The Grinch Who Stole Christmas. I don't know much about Dr. Seuss Nursery Rhymes, but I do have a nomination for Grinch of the Year - not, in this case, a grinch who steals Christmas, but a grinch who steals magic. Movie magic.

His name is Jack Weyland. He's a professor of physics at the School of Mines and Technology in Rapid City, South Dakota. And when it comes to the magic of movies, Jack Weyland is a one man wrecking crew.

It all started in a movie house about 20 years ago. Jack Weyland was sitting up in the balcony watching a film called Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea.

Did you see that movie? It's about a submarine going under the North Pole. There's one dramatic scene in which the sub threads its way tortuously between the bottom of a giant iceberg and the floor of the ocean. You see closeups of the crew sweating like Finns in a sauna, then the camera switches to an external shot, and you see huge chunks of ice shearing off the icebergs bottom and tumbling down to bombard the sub.

And that's when Jack Weyland found himself standing up in the movie balcony, popcorn balls flying every direction, shouting "That's impossible! Ice wouldn't hit the sub like that! Ice floats!"

Well, he was absolutely right of course, although Professor Weyland's fellow movie patrons probably didn't appreciate the impromptu physics lesson quite as much as he would have liked.

No matter. Jack Weyland had been metamorphosed into a movie goer with a mission. Since then, the professor has used his knowledge of physics to debunk a whole series of popular movies. You want to hear some? Okay, take King Kong. He could never be that big, says Weyland, because when you simply scale something up (in other words, take an ordinary ape and increase its size a few hundred times) the weight of the beast would increase much more dramatically than the bone strength. Meaning that King Kong would have taken one step toward the Empire State Building

Stevens should pay own legal costs

Editor:

Regardless of the guilt or innocence of Mr. Stevens, the $3.5 million legal bill was still picked up by the tax payer.

In this country every man has a definite right to legal counsel when appearing before the courts.

Point One;

If a person for one reason or another is unable to afford counsel, we have a legal aid system in place, paid for with tax dollars, and that is to be applauded.

If a person is working, but just making ends meet, there is a provision in the legal aid system by which that person can, on monthly installments, pay all or a portion of his or her legal expenses depending on that person's income.

Now the question is this; did Mr. Stevens receive a form of legal aid?

I believe cabinet minister or not, he unequivocally did.

Point Two;

If the above bears truth, should not Mr. Stevens be required by law to pay all or part of his legal aid expenses?

Mr. Stevens when taking office was required to put his holdings in a blind trust, according to the rules as set out in parliamentary procedure.

We are not talking nickels and dimes here, Magna alone is worth plenty, spelled millions.

Mr. Stevens I am sure is financially capable of paying all, or a substantial amount of his legal expenses. After all look at the government grants and contracts Magna and Associates received during his tenure - albeit short - as industry minister.

Point Three;

Although he has been found guilty on fourteen charges of conflict of interest, I am willing to bet that Mr. Stevens and associates will lose neither the grants or the government contracts, nor will he appeal the decisions handed down.

It is a shame that Mr. Stevens can no longer be called Honourable.

I welcome any rebuttal.

Russ McBride,
Minden.

P.S. Although it was agreed on from the start that his expenses would be covered, the reason for this letter is to question the credibility of government treatment of its people. Under the charter it states we are equal! But are we?

Melting pond

Canada was founded on two languages

Editor:

I read with great sadness the letter from Donald F. Deepröse, published in your November 2 issue. Mr. Deepröse deplores in strong language the possibility that Ontario is likely to become officially bilingual. The fact that our country is founded on two languages and two cultures has undoubtedly been troublesome, and sometimes tragic, from time to time for both individuals and groups on both sides. But it also gives us a number of opportunities that we could enjoy in no other way.

We have, first of all, the opportunity to conduct an experiment in creating a society which can embrace and enshrine such differences at every level. There are other countries - some older, some younger - which have not been able to make the necessary accommodations and which continue to battle within themselves. Belgium leaps to mind as a case in point (see The Globe and Mail, November 14, page D3). We can be proud of ourselves for having done better.

The ability to speak more than one language also gives us the opportunity to think in more than one way and to think about concepts and ideas that do not exist in our own language. Words and phrases are not always translatable from one language to another. The German word "Weltanschauung" springs to mind; it sort of means "world view" or "philosophical outlook" or something similar. But we have no word in English to express it exactly and so can neither entertain nor discuss the notion.

Even if our French is less than wonderful on a personal basis, the fact that our Francophone fellow citizens are encouraged to maintain their own language ensures that Anglophones will continue, in a time of great pressure to homogeneity in everything from music to potato chips, to enjoy the fruits of a culturally diverse society.

And that is why Mr. Deepröse's letter is so sad. Because he's so scared, it seems, that he cannot see the larger picture. Scared of losing his job perhaps?

... and collapsed with two broken legs. The movie Star Wars? Half of it consisted of intergalactic, World War Two-style dogfights. Couldn't be, tut-tuts the professor. Ships can't manoeuvre like that in space - and they wouldn't make any noise if they could. Space is a vacuum. And you remember in Superman when the Man of Steel reveals that he knows what colour underwear Lois Lane is wearing? Forget it. "If Superman really had X ray vision" says Weyland, "he would see Lois's skeleton, not her scanties - and anyway the radiation would probably give her cancer."

The professor knows no mercy. He even pooh poohs one of my favourite duos of the cinematic confrontation genre: The Roadrunner versus Wile E. Coyote. You know - the cartoons in which the coyote, employing every technological aid ever invented, pursues that little speedster, the roadrunner. And the roadrunner, using only native wit, blinding speed and a maddening BEEP BEEP - leads the coyote on to ever escalating finales of destruction and defeat. Professor Weyland is particularly vexed with Mister Coyote because he defies the laws of gravity. He dashes off a cliff and continues to run horizontally until it occurs to him that he ... couldn't be running horizontally. Wile E. Coyote stops in mid-air ... looks down ... addresses a painfully poignant look at the camera ... and then plummets like a Baby Grand pushed out a 20-storey window.

"Couldn't happen" says the Professor. "An object falls at the same rate whether you drop it straight down or fire it as a projectile."

All of which makes me want to track down Professor Jack Weyland, just so I can say two little words to him:

So ... what?

We know all that, Jack! Movie goers aren't that dumb! We know that Superman probably doesn't leap tall buildings in a single bound and there are probably no large footprints on the side of the Empire State Building and Rocky probably didn't really make the world safe for democracy in a boxing ring.

We know all that ... and we don't care. We go to the movies to be entertained. If we wanted a physics lesson, we'd probably be sitting in your classroom, listening to you rant.

Claire Booth Luce once said that the problem with Technological Man is that he can't believe in anything that can't be measured, taped or put in a computer.

I think that may be Professor Weyland's problem. Mind you, it's not an insoluble problem. All he needs is a little education.

Say ... a festival of Roadrunner Cartoons?

There are no more good excuses

Editor:

This is an Open Letter to the Community.

The Minden County Town Museum needs your support. Everyone believes in the preservation of our community heritage, right? - just as we believe in apple pie, roast turkey, and motherhood.

Well, we can't sit back and wait for others to preserve our heritage for us. Now come the excuses. I haven't the time, I'm too shy, I don't have anything to contribute, I'm new to the community, I've done my share, I'm already on other committees, I'm retired, I don't know how I can help. - Wait a moment. Did you say you want to know how you can help? - Well read on -

But first let's pay tribute to some museum committee members who are unable to continue as museum directors next year. We thank Miriam Barnes for her assistance, particularly in the organization of the sheep to shawl exhibit at the County Fair. Shirley Warder acted as secretary and helped to prepare our request for a Feasibility Study. Bob Harrington helped with all aspects of museum work - preparing the heritage millstone exhibit, installing a tongue and groove ceiling in the museum, reminding members of meetings, writing thank you letters and using his truck to move artifacts and items for our bazaars. (All this with jokes, yet.)

Finally we come to a member who is one of the cornerstones of the museum, Laura Kirkwood. Words cannot properly express the appreciation that is felt for Laura's contributions to the museum's development. Laura was one of the founding members who fought to preserve the original Stirling Bank as a community museum. She has carefully recorded and numbered the donations of artifacts for our museum and has been chairman of the committee to select and purchase artifacts. Laura has preserved with reverence many fine artifacts belonging to Doctor Agnes Jamieson. She is an organizer of the first order, and has spent countless hours organizing fund-raising sales, selling tickets on a painting by Agnes Jamieson, setting up an honour scroll for those who contribute to the museum in the memory of loved ones, and building a fine collection of heritage books for reference by the public. Recently Laura has assisted with heritage interviews recorded on V.C.R. tapes which are available for viewing at the museum.

Husband Dick Kirkwood, that spry Octogenarian is going to continue to lend his assistance to the museum committee. Recently he removed an unwanted wall at the museum and has volunteered to assist with the moving of a heritage log building on to museum property (figures that an 80 year old ought to be able to do the work of two forty year olds, - will probably be disappointed when Simmerson uses cranes to move the building).

The Kirkwoods, the Hulbigs, The Harringtons, Jean Lacey, have waited a long time to see a heritage home moved onto museum property. The new park plan has provided a setting, the council has given its approval, the building has been donated. Wouldn't Laura be pleased to have a heritage home to display artifacts and set it up "just like our forefathers!"

Now comes the important part, what you can do. First we want one person in every family in this community to return the form at the end of this article, complete with $2.00 to Stan Hill, Box 789, Minden or drop it off to the municipal office in an envelope (saves a stamp). This will make you a support member of the Minden County Town Museum. You'll feel better and museum development will prosper. We just received a letter from Jake Epp, Minister of National Health and Welfare informing us that we would receive our grant from Mr. William C. Scott, our member of parliament, through the New Horizons program in the amount of $2200 to carry out our project. Our project includes the involvement of more people in our museum work (so mail in your membership), the erection of a suitable highway sign, another on Bobcaygeon

Rd. (some residents haven't found us yet), the improvement of display space and the collection of heritage pictures.

Wow! That's the second grant we have received this year. We funded our camcorder, V.C.R. and T.V. to record heritage interviews. We'd like some help in setting up these interviews, please. Bill Kulas has acted as interviewer on the last two interviews (that marvellous man makes time) - trouble is he's getting so professional we're afraid CHEx will grab him for interview programs.

We need to borrow heritage photos which we can duplicate, enlarge and use for our displays and some volunteers to help with this activity. This would be a good project for members of our senior citizens homes to assist with - let's hear from you.

Museum grant is approved

A group of retired people from Minden will receive a New Horizons grant for $2,200, Health and Welfare Minister Jake Epp announced last week.

County Town Museum Seniors Committee will establish new activities including gathering artifacts, researching and preparing displays, interviewing pioneers, preparing and distributing publicity materials and arranging essay writing contests in schools.

New Horizons is a federal government program that enables retired people to create projects of their own choosing. It offers grants to groups who undertake activities for the benefit of themselves and others in their community. The accent is on their willingness to meet such needs.

Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation is based on information gathered at the Ministry of Environment Acid Rain Testing Station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

There were 3 precipitation events recorded during the week of November 29 - December 5:

November 29: 11 mm rain, 4.4 pH from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York to eastern Ontario.

November 30: 1 mm mixed rain and snow, 4.4 pH, from Indiana, Michigan and Lake Huron.

December 2: 1 cm snow, pH 4.8, from northern Ontario, Lake Superior to Lake Huron.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Board forced to drill new well at Haliburton school

The following items were dealt with at the December 10 meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education:

Dry well

The water well at Victoria Street School in Haliburton has gone dry, forcing the board of education to invest in the drilling of a new well.

At last Tuesday's board meeting, business administrator Jim Bradley reported that a tank of water was being brought in from Kawartha Dairies as a temporary measure. He said the likely solution to the well problem would be to have a new one drilled. Depending on the depth of the hole needed to provide a sufficient flow of water, he said it could cost as much as $20,000.

The well problem comes at a time when the board is considering the fate of the old school. However, Bradley noted that even if the property is disposed of a good well will influence its value.

The board directed Bradley to authorize whatever work is necessary to restore the water supply to the school.

Evaluations

Acting on a recommendation from the Liaison Committee, the Board passed a resolution setting out a minimum number of times teachers should be evaluated.

Teachers with three to five years of experience should be evaluated at least once each year. Those with more than five years of experience will be evaluated at least once every three years.

Education Director Stuart Baker noted that this is the minimum number of evaluations for teachers who are not deemed to be "at risk". He said a principal can sit in on as many classes as necessary where a teacher is having some problems.

Victoria no more

Victoria Street School in Haliburton Village will likely be closed down if the Ministry of Education approves the capital funding request for additional classroom space in the village.

Confusion surrounding what direction the board plans to take to provide needed classroom space in Haliburton started a lengthy discussion at last week's meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education.

Trustee Len Savaltori argued that the board had already agreed by consensus that, should funding be made available, Victoria Street School would be closed and there would be an expansion at J.D. Hodgson School. Although there were dissenting views as to what the trustees had agreed upon at that earlier meeting, the consensus of trustees at last Tuesday's meeting felt it would be unwise to refurbish the old Victoria Street School. "It would be a shame to spend five cents on that school," said Salvatore.

The board has applied for capital funding for additional classroom space in both Minden and Haliburton Villages, with Minden being the top priority. Building committees were struck at Tuesday's meeting to plan for both projects. Salvatore will chair the Haliburton committee while Wendy Ladurantaye will chair the Minden committee.

OFSAA ski meet

As many as 800 competitors will be coming to Haliburton in late February to participate in the Ontario schools Nordic Ski Finals being hosted by the high school.

A report on the event from teacher John Fitzgerald said the organizing committee has been working on this event since last spring and everything is now ready. The races will be held on February 21, 22 and 23 on the trails surrounding the PineStone Inn.

This will be the first time the event has been staged in Haliburton County and Education Director Stuart Baker was pleased to see the emphasis being placed on this sport. There is a great deal of value in this sport, said Baker, because it can become a good recreational activity in later life.

Low impact aerobics offered to area seniors

Minden area seniors will be dancing their way to improved health when low impact classes start up at Archie Stouffer Elementary School early in January.

Janis Guthy from the Haliburton Chiropractic Clinic is organizing and will be leading the Tuesday and Thursday evening classes which begin on January 5. People interested in joining the 10-week non-profit program can receive a registration package by calling Guthy at 457-1514.

Low impact aerobics classes are an enjoyable way of toning up the muscles without overtaxing the cardio-vascular system, says Guthy, who has led such classes for close to 10 years. The benefits to be had from these classes include more flexibility, better joint motion and improved muscles and cardio-vascular system.

The Minden and Haliburton Seniors Curling Clubs participated in a bonspiel in Minden last week, competing for the first annual Hodgkinson Curling Trophy. The trophy honours Art Hodgkinson who came to the Minden area in the early 1930's and was the originator of the Minden Curling Club. He was also the original owner of the Wagon Wheel Restaurant. Shown in the top photo, Hodgkinson's daughters, (far right) Carol and Yvonne, present the trophy to the winning rink of Ann Baker, Bill Donnelly, Fred Martin and Elizabeth Wright. Also shown in the photo is club president Ed Pettinger.

High flying Hartwick wins fourth straight

The high-scoring Hartwick team has taken lone control of second place in the Minden Men's Recreational League as they continued their climb in the standings with a lopsided win over Vasey last Monday night.

Still four points away from the league leading Halls and Times squads, Hartwick notched their fourth straight win with a 19 - 6 score that makes them the highest scoring team in the league.

Halls, which took its only loss this season by default, is the only team that Hartwick has not defeated. Halls edged Hartwick 6 - 2 in the opening game of the season and the two teams have not faced off together since Hartwick started its streak five weeks ago. However, they are scheduled to play each other tonight at 8:30 p.m.

Both teams will have a lot riding on the results of tonight's game. Halls will be struggling to hold onto its share of the lead, while Hartwick will try and edge that much closer to the top of the standings. Both teams are hoping to extend their winning streaks to five games.

There were no real upsets in last Monday night's action at the Minden arena. Halls won their fourth in a row by downing Home Hardware 8 - 2, and The Times held onto their share of first place with a narrow 6 - 5 win over the strong Rockcliffe team. Rockcliffe's loss dropped them back into third place in the standings, one game behind Hartwick.

Hartwick 19, Vasey 6

From the very beginning it was clear that Vasey was no challenge for the high-flying Hartwick squad as they fell behind 5 - 0 in the first period and allowed another four goals in the second before they finally made the scoreboard.

Hartwick's Larry Sawyer and Dave Hartwick led the attack with five goals each, while Brian Shaw added another four. Single goals were notched by Murray Beetlestone, Bart Hilhorst and Royce Miller and Jim Crow scored twice.

Jerry Campbell and Daryl Ward each scored two for Vasey while Steve Crowe and Louis Reynolds scored one each.

Halls 8, Home 2

The second game of the night saw Halls defeat Home Hardware by an 8 - 2 margin. Although it was a loss for Home, it was an improvement over the first time they met Halls and lost 13 - 1.

John Barkwell paved the way for Halls, scoring four of the goals while Greg Anderson notched two. Tom Haley and Barry Boice each scored once in the winning effort.

Scott Hamilton and Gary Nelson scored the two goals for Home Hardware.

Times 6, Rockcliffe 5

The final game of the night saw the Rockcliffe and The Times exchange the lead four times before The Times finally went out in front for good.

The Rockcliffe's Bernie Upton opened the scoring in the first period but Jeff Howe soon evened things up for The Times. The 1 - 1 tie held throughout the rest of the first period and all of the second.

The Times outscored their opponents five goals to four in the final frame to deal the Rockcliffe their fourth straight loss.

Howe led the scoring for The Times with four while Bern Berry and Andy Campbell each added one to the count.

Upton and Al Cunningham each scored twice for the Rockcliffe while Harold Cowen scored once.

The men's league heads into its ninth week of the schedule tonight at the Minden arena. At 7 p.m. Vasey takes on The Times. At 8:30 p.m. Hartwick and Halls will battle it out, and at 10 p.m. the Rockcliffe meets Home Hardware.

LCBO reforms coming

County Museum will receive an operating grant of $4,974.

Finally, I am sure many will welcome the news that a number of changes are being implemented to reform the operation of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

In the coming months, store locations, product selection and store types will be tied to local preferences and employees will be encouraged to broaden their product knowledge. Regional, district and store managers will have a much greater voice in board policies and practices.

I will be monitoring these changes to ensure the people of Victoria - Haliburton continue to receive quality service from agencies of the government.

Minden's 21st annual bird count is part of continent wide effort submitted by Dennis Barry

The 21st annual Minden Christmas Bird Count will be held on Saturday, December 19. This is part of a North America-wide effort to determine the wintering population of birds throughout the continent begun on Christmas Day back in 1900. Now more than 1,500 such counts are conducted throughout North America involving some 40,000 participants.

The first count in Minden was held in 1967. The two participants, Dennis Barry and George Scott saw a total of 1,569 birds of 19 different species. In 1986, 2,613 birds of 37 kinds were recorded by 10 participants on the day of the count, December 20. Species of birds seen on the three days before count day and the three days after are also recorded if they are species not recorded on the actual day of the count.

The census area is a 15-mile diameter circle centred about two and one half miles south-southeast of Minden. It includes the communities of Minden, Kinmount, Gelert, Lochlin, Ingoldsby, Moore Falls and Miner's Bay. Major waterways include Gull and Drag Rivers, Gull Lake, Minden Lake, Cannings Lake and parts of Mountain and Kasha-gawigamog Lakes.

We start out before dawn listening for owls and continue until dusk. The circle is divided up into five areas and teams of observers cover as much of each area as possible by car, on foot, on skis and occasionally by canoe trying to determine what birds are here in winter.

The Minden area has one of the highest numbers of bird feeders for the population of anywhere in North America. This is a great help to the birds and also to the people trying to find them. On last year's count a red-winged blackbird, a common grackle, a song sparrow and a mourning dove were all wintering because of feeders.

Open water along the Gull and Burnt River systems tends to attract wintering waterfowl that would be considered unusual in Ontario even for areas along the Great Lakes.

1986 was a banner year in that three new species were recorded along the Gull, an adult bald eagle at Sandy Bay, a pied-billed grebe in the river in Minden and, rarest of all, a Barrow's Goldeneye at the bottom of the whitewater course at the upper end of Minden Lake. This species is usually found in British Columbia and may never have been recorded in Haliburton County before.

While the unusual species are exciting to the count participants, the main value of the count is to record the numbers of such common species as black-capped chickadees, downy woodpeckers and blue jays. By comparing numbers of these species recorded over the years, scientists can determine population trends to see if certain species are declining in numbers.

People in the census area can help out with the count in a number of ways. You can get your bird feeders in operation early and keep them well stocked, especially on December 19. You can phone Ron Pittaway (286-3471) before count day to report any unusual species in your neighbourhood, or visiting your feeder. You can also keep track of how many birds of each species visit your feeder on December 19 and phone the information to Dennis Barry or Ron Pittaway on the evening of the 19th between 6 and 9 p.m., or to Ron Pittaway on December 20.

If you would like to come along on the count, phone Ron by December 18 and meet us in front of the Ministry of Natural Resources offices at the north end of the Minden by-pass at 7:15 a.m. on Saturday, December 19.

Over the 20 years since the count began we have seen a total of 73 different kinds of birds. Each year brings new surprises. With your help we feel the 1987 Minden Christmas Count could be the most exciting ever.

Stanhope council optimistic of funding for airport discouraging. With a total budget of about $7-million available for all of Canada's municipal airports, there is a long waiting list. Last year, Stanhope Township had its application in late, and the funding was turned down.

However, this year's application was placed early and Davis hopes that Stanhope will be near the top of the list for funding. "We've taken all the necessary steps," he says, including completion of a master plan and a cost benefit study. He said council will know in another four or five weeks whether all the work has paid off.

If the funding is approved, the resulting improvements to the airport will have a great impact on the economy of the whole county, said Davis. One example: an economic benefit would come from Sea Wind International, which has designed a plane to be sold in kit form. Because of the less than ideal conditions at the present airport, this company has to go to the Muskoka airport to show its prototypes. Once work is completed, these planes will be displayed at the Stanhope airport.

During the summer, the airport handles about 20 to 25 take-offs and landings per day. With a paved runway that will be usable year round, David feels the airport will see a lot more traffic.

Another business that will likely prosper once the airport is upgraded is the charter service operated by Steve Wilcox. At a recent meeting, Wilcox told council that he would be willing to expand his business, including hiring a full-time mechanic, if there was a "more definite disposition of the airport."

The following is a copy of a submission to the town Council.

Reeve & Council,
Anson, Hindon &

On Thursday, November 26, following the snowstorm, I had our driveway plowed out. Late in the afternoon, the town snowplow came by and choked the driveway entrance with a two foot barrier of hard chunks of snow and ice.

About 3:30 p.m. this same piece of equipment at road speed and blade up went by (presumably finished for the day). I attempted to shovel this mess enough to get a car through but found I couldn't handle it. I am 68 years of age and not looking for a heart attack from this type of exercise. I came in and phoned the town office to try to voice my complaint to someone on the roads department. The girl said she would leave the message as there was no way they could be contacted at that time. I waited all day Friday and not even the courtesy of a phone call to acknowledge the complaint.

As a result I had to hire Jim Garbutt to come again and clean it out Friday night.

Please don't send me an explanation of why it can't be done as I am a former Transportation Manager and quite familiar with motorized road equipment and the double talk ordinary citizens receive from government bodies who voices of hhss

by Katy Beach, Dianne Garbutt and Heather Donaldson

G'day! The past two weeks have been rather busy and eventful for the HHSS crew, so we would like to let you in on the events.

As you've already heard here last week, our "Cabaret of Talent" was a brilliant success. Every act offered something different, and our hats are off to all who were involved in putting the spectacle on, including Miss Robichaud, who got the ball rolling. Good goin' guys!

They're here! Our year books are finally out. The day they arrived, the halls rang with "Oh, do I ever look weird", "Look at so and so, they look like an elephant!", and the ever popular "you've just got to sign my yearbook!" On behalf of nearly all of the school student body, we would like to thank whoever was responsible for getting more autograph pages in the back. From those that we've seen and signed, they didn't go to waste.

Our music department would like to thank all those who supported the recent money raising campaign of fruit and porcelain bells. We hope you are satisfied with your goods, and we appreciate your support of our cause.

Last week, HHSS was visited by groups of future students - grade 8's from ASES and JDHES were invited for an orienteering session at the school so that they could get the idea of the layout of the school and a taste of what next year would be like. We hope the new surroundings did not scare or make you feel intimidated about September of '88. Consider yourselves lucky - a certain three grade 11 students never got a decent orienteering session until they enrolled in Grade 9, as did some others.

The past two weeks has given many ups and downs to high school Computer students, especially those in the Grade 11 Data Processing Techniques class. On December 2nd, our first shipment of ICON computers came in. It was like Christmas morning... until the boxes were opened. Only 3 full computer monitor systems were totally usable. It goes without mentioning that the students were a bit upset (this left only seven people per computer in that class alone), not to mention Mr. Lerpiniere, the course teacher. Things started to turn last Monday, though, when a new group came in. Opened the following day, the Computers and monitors were found to be in tact and in working order, except for one monitor, which was slightly cracked.

Finally, after nearly a year of waiting, the class could truly begin to the best of all involved. But, this happy ending sheds only a glimmer of light on a much darker picture. Why should a school have to wait for four months after the beginning of classes in order to receive the necessary computers for that class, after they had been ordered far in advance? It was by no fault of the teacher or our school staff, to our knowledge. It seems unfair to us, especially since the ICONS were built for the exclusive use of schools. We are glad to have our QNX system in place, but had it arrived any later, the state and existence of the Data Processing Techniques class would be in severe jeopardy.

On Wednesday, December 9th, the students and teachers were treated with a film by the name of Kevin's story of which outline a young drunken driver's feelings and concerns since he killed a young teenager in an alcohol-related accident. The S.A.D.D. committee of our school did an excellent job of bringing the message home. Let's hope that students and teachers alike take heed to what the assembly was saying.

Until next week.

One of the most popular individuals of the season made a surprise visit to Hyland Crest Friday night. Home resident Verna Jarvis knew exactly how to greet the jolly gent, giving Santa Claus a big smile and warm hug. The visit was part of the home's Christmas show which included skits, songs, a retelling of the Christmas story and treats for everyone. Behind the furry white beard is Hyland Crest administrator Karl Samuelson.

Museum calls for volunteers

school - perhaps a heritage public speaking contest funded by the museum? Some of our pioneers living at Hyland Crest could be persuaded to share their experiences with school children. Maybe a staff member from Archie Stouffer School would volunteer as a contact person.

Funding. Donations in memory of a loved one preserves their name on the museum scroll. I understand that one service club in Haliburton contributes $25,000 a year to the Haliburton Museum. Our local clubs do a magnificent job in funding community projects. Our museum needs support - now. How about a contribution? Perhaps a museum contact person could be appointed by each service club.

Before I close this article, I would like to suggest that museums in Haliburton be funded by the county and placed under one umbrella. The museum in Haliburton is under the guidance of Russ Carver is doing a magnificent job. They have three full time paid employees with several summer helpers. With their expertise available other centres such as Minden could be satellites using expertise and borrowing artifacts from the main centre.

The Minden Museum has had five directors on its committee who live in Lutterworth. We found out last year that these members cannot hold office on our municipal committees because it might involve the expenditure of municipal funds. Under a county umbrella this problem would be solved. (After all we're friends and neighbours). Let your council members know your views.

Make one of your goals for 1988 a visit to the Minden County Town Museum and attend public meetings to hear local speakers who will help us to better appreciate our local heritage.

Stan Hill,
Museum Chairman.

Time to view Herring Gulls

With his white head, strong yellow bill, immaculate pearl-gray mantle and black-tipped wings, the herring gull was handsome. It was only when he turned that I saw the dirty dragging excrescence which seemed no part of him, but was one of his wings almost severed from his body.

On the Niagara River, early December is traditionally the time to watch for unusual gulls. I had been watching the rapid flight of the hundreds of small Bonaparte's gulls, common migrants this time of year from their nesting grounds by lakes in the boreal forest of Ontario. Turning and twisting as though to show off the elegant white border on their wings, they would drop suddenly to the surface to pick up some small morsel.

But the crippled herring gull kept distracting me. He had sidled with difficulty to the water where he floated like a listing vessel, unnaturally awkward. Laboriously he scrambled back up on the beach where even the gently lapping water threw him off balance so that he staggered and kept him-directly benefit them.

Many advantages with BIA

Monday's meeting was called by the municipality after it received requests from a number of business people interested in forming a BIA. Clint Collier, from the Ministry of Housing, outlined the merits of a BIA to about 40 people in attendance.

Collier described a BIA as a self-help mechanism designed to assist businesses upgrade and promote the commercial and shopping district. The budget is established by BIA members and the funding is collected by the municipality through additional taxation applied to businesses within the designated area.

Running a special promotion, such as a sidewalk sale, can be made much easier with a BIA in place, Collier said. Too often, the bulk of the time spent in organizing such an event is spent collecting money from the participating businesses. He also noted that there are always businesses that benefit from these promotions but do not contribute to the costs.

With a BIA in place, the budget is struck at the start of the year and the funds for such promotions are ready to be tapped. Collier said this arrangement allows the organizers to spend more time on making the promotion a success and less on collecting fees from the participating businesses. It also encourages participation from all the businesses.

In addition to these benefits, Collier said communities with a BIA in place are more attractive to people who may be considering starting a business in the area. If a person has a choice between two areas for starting up a business, the area with a BIA will have that advantage, he said.

Collier also noted that BIAs encourage a close working relationship between business and the municipality which is "essential for success." The advertising power of businesses within the designated area would also be strengthened, he said.

With all the development going on in Haliburton's downtown core, the formation of a BIA is due, said Pam Brohman, unofficial spokesperson for the group spearheading the drive. "There's a new enthusiasm here in town," she said. "And there's a group of us that really feel strongly about promoting the community." With all that is happening in Haliburton, she said now is the perfect time to organize.

Because the formation of a BIA can be foiled if businesses representing a third of the realty assessment in the area object, it was initially suggested that only the downtown core should be included. However, at Tuesday's meeting, businesses outside of that area showed an interest in being a part. Therefore, these areas will also be considered for inclusion in the BIA.

Once boundaries have been agreed upon, the committee will make a request to the municipality to pass a bylaw designating the area. All businesses within the boundaries will then be notified and will have 60 days to file objections.

Great Lakes pollution endangers gull breeding

self upright with difficulty. Safe for the moment on the sand, he stood motionless. With his almost severed wing blocked from my view I half expected to see him take a short run and launch himself effortlessly to soar with his fellows. But he would never follow that path again and he seemed to know it as he hunkered down with his back to the slope.

Over the river, ring-billed and herring gulls swooped among the delicate and agile Bonaparte's gulls. Several greater black-backed gulls, our largest gulls, rode on the surface like majestic and rather sinister frigates. None of these gulls was unusual in this place at this time of year. There would be no rare gulls today, only the spectacle of the peerless flyer grounded and doomed.

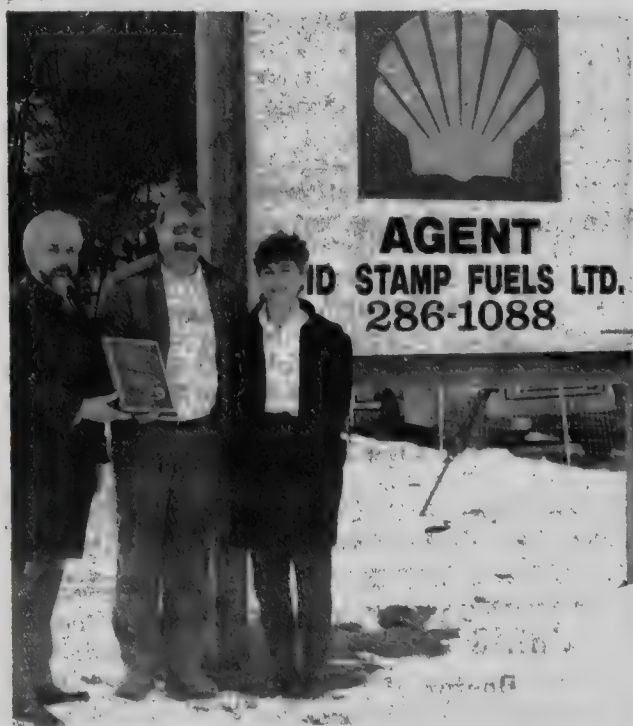

People often react to gulls as they do to squirrels. There are so many sea gulls that one more or less scarcely matters. But the herring gull, the bird that people commonly refer to as a sea gull, was, in the early 1900's, the victim of egg collectors and of a profitable market for gull wings to be used in the millinery trade. The herring gull population in Lake Ontario reached an all-time low. The Atlas of Breeding Birds of Ontario notes that for a time herring gulls were extirpated from many breeding grounds on Lake Ontario. The Migratory Bird Treaty of 1916 protected the species allowing it to expand its breeding range and numbers. In the 1960's and early 1970's, however, these gulls faced a new threat as their breeding success was hampered by pollutants in the Great Lakes. At present their population seems to be holding steady.

The ring-billed gull, the most common gull in Southern Ontario, far outnumbers the herring gull. Unlike the herring gull, it shows no reticence in the presence of humans. This is the gull that hangs about outside fast food outlets scrounging scraps, or hovers near the picnic table. Although at one time its numbers were also greatly reduced by human interference, over the last 25 years the population of this adaptable gull has exploded.

Our lakes and rivers would not be the same without gulls. Because they are so at ease in both air and water they exercise an endless fascination over us. I regretted the crippled herring gull, deprived of his wonderful powers and fated to dwindle on that beach.

Act outlines multi culturalism policy

by Bill Scott, M.P.

On December 1, Secretary of State David Crombie, the Minister Responsible for Multiculturalism, tabled Bill C-93, the Canadian Multiculturalism Act in the House of Commons. The proposed Act spells out the federal government's multiculturalism policy. Highlights of the Bill are as follows:

Contains a preamble reiterating the commitment in the Constitution of Canada to preserve and enhance the multicultural heritage of Canadians, to guarantee equality for all as set forth in the Constitution, and to provide for the equal status of all Canadians, whether by birth or by choice.

Sets forth in legislation a Multiculturalism Policy for Canada which reflects the cultural and racial diversity of Canadian society.

Provides for a cross-governmental commitment to implement the Multiculturalism Policy within all federal institutions.

Assigns to the Minister Responsible for Multiculturalism a special coordinating responsibility for the implementation of the Multiculturalism Policy.

Provides for the tabling of an annual report to Parliament for review by the Standing Committee on Multiculturalism.

Provides a legislative base for the Canadian Multiculturalism Council to advise the Minister.

Promotes the understanding that multiculturalism is a basic element of the Canadian heritage and identity and that it provides an invaluable resource in the shaping of Canada's future.

Advances multiculturalism throughout Canada in harmony with the national commitment to the official languages of Canada.

Promotes policies, programs and practices that enhance the understanding of and respect for the diversity of Canadian society.

Encourages and assists individuals, organizations and institutions to project the multicultural reality of Canada in their activities at home and abroad.

Promotes the preservation and enhancement of heritage cultures.

Assists racial minority communities in overcoming discriminatory barriers.

As Mr. Crombie stated, "The government believes the proposed Act will be of historic significance. Its intention is to strengthen our unity, reinforce our Canadian identity, improve our economic prospects and give recognition to historical and contemporary realities in this country."

letters letters letters letters

Scared of the challenge of becoming adept to some degree in a language other than English? Scared of change? Maybe he has good cause to be afraid. Maybe languages aren't his strong suit. Maybe he feels that years of public service and personal planning are threatened, that his job is at risk, that his chances of promotion are in danger, that his pension will not be what he had hoped. These are all legitimate concerns and if they are not being properly addressed by the government's human resources officers, then a vigorous protest should be lodged.

But for Mr. Deeprose to use his own personal fears to try to whip up a backlash against the prospect of official bilingualism serves us all badly. He is wrong when he says that only the 5% born to the French language will be eligible for 40% of the positions in the public service because he bases that conclusion on the false assumption that only the 5% will be effectively bilingual. There are any number of federal civil servants and national politicians, born Anglophones, to prove otherwise. Undoubtedly, some of them had a difficult time learning French, but they did it. Certainly Franco-phones will have an easier time at the beginning - they may even be "greatly advantaged", as Mr. Deeprose says, for a while. But the balance will right itself. Indeed, if the Franco-phones do have the edge for a while, that only rights the balance that has existed for centuries when those of us of WASP heritage have had it largely our own way. It's actually rather embarrassing to find out how badly Anglo-phones react when the shoe is on the other foot.

Mr. Deeprose asks if we "really want" our future premiers, government leaders, public service heads to be fluently bilingual. My answer is yes, I do. I want them to ensure, by their own example and commitment, that members of both Canada's founding races are first-class citizens. (At this point, someone always raises a red herring about the mother tongues of other immigrant groups. If Canada as a nation has been founded by English and Chinese or French and Ukrainian, then that's the bilingualism we should be working toward. Mr. Deeprose makes this error by suggesting that Franco-phones have "no more claim to language rights than any other group in the province. But they do.)

Perhaps Mr. Deeprose would argue that none of this addresses the question of why Ontario should become officially bilingual. We have it on the federal level; surely that's enough. I would argue that official bilingualism in Ontario is important because we are the largest, richest, and most populous province. We have an obligation to show leadership, to demonstrate that official bilingualism at the provincial level is not the spectre, not the bogey-man that sad, frightened people like Mr. Deeprose would have us believe. We have long had this opportunity to extend the rights of first-class citizenship to Ontarians of both founding races. I am glad we finally have the leaders with the political will to do the right thing.

Toronto.

Our birthdays for December are as follows: Lydia McNeil, Lily Curry, Annie Schultz, Lily Hogg, Art Young. Many happy more!

Mrs. Jarvis had several guests last week. They were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Faulkner of Brampton, Mr. and Mrs. William Stuart of Cameron.

Bert Harrison has enjoyed having several of his family in to see him. Angus Coulter had his son Leslie and his wife Emily, and Mrs. Cora Hogg call on him. They also called on me.

I am sorry to report two of our residents are still on the sick list, Edith Welch and Joachim Gauthier. We wish them a speedy recovery. Our services last Sunday were by Rev. J. Burgess and on Tuesday Rev. Fast from Minden Gospel Church.

Sorry for the mistake Mrs. Hunter, I know now it was your Grandson instead of your son that came to see you. I will try to do better in the future.

I had my grandson Frank Wilkinson and his little son Brian from Ajax to call on me. Also my daughter Anna Gordon.

On Thursday afternoon tea was brought in by the ladies from Lutterworth Estates. It was real nice and was enjoyed by all. I have just been told that Percy Brintnell is in the Hospital and has had a stroke. We are certainly sorry to hear that.

Welcome home goes to Edith Welch who has had a term in the hospital.

The movies Monday night were "Tis a Hobby for Harvey", "Figure Skating", "Gannet Island" and "Collection of Anahon".

Mrs. Buttery had her niece and family call on her.

See you next week.

"Give us Lord a bit of Sun,

A bit of work and a bit of fun,

Give us all in the struggle and splutter,

Our Daily Bread and a bit of butter."

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Culture weaves communities

by Shirley Hodgson

A couple of weeks ago I was visiting my niece in Burlington. On Saturday night she took me to the beautiful Hamilton Place to see John Allan Cameron. He was in great form - really terrific and a good time was had by all.

The reason I am mentioning this is because when I read the programme for this performance, a few words seemed to leap from the page - and I quote - "Culture is the thread that weaves our Canada together."

Just think about that for a few moments. Culture also weaves communities together. The Guild has proven this repeatedly - all you have to do is check the addresses of the Guild members and you will see how far reaching this "Culture" goes. Everyone enjoys the enrichment the Guild gives them.

My thanks to Holly and the Guild news letter for the information which I will be passing on to you this month.

To begin with I wish to remind you that the Christmas Sale at the Rails' End Gallery is in full swing now - and it will continue until December 19. New articles are constantly being added as the sale progresses. Probably you'll be able to do your Christmas Shopping in this one special place as the artists have produced some beautiful things this year.

Perhaps you live closer to Minden - then you'd enjoy visiting the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. Their Christmas Sale is from December 5 - 19. The road to the Gallery is under construction but quite passable and I'm sure you'll be pleased with the gifts you will find.

The Weavers group is selling "Sheep to Shawl" raffle tickets. These shawls were produced in one day at the Minden Fair. The tickets are available at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery and the Rails' End Gallery.

The draw will take place December 20 at the Rails' End Gallery. Cost of tickets 50¢ each or three for $1.00.

The Guild quilt raffle tickets are now available and may be purchased at $2.00 each or three for $5.00. The quilt is on display at the Rails' End Gallery.

Concert Series tickets are still available at the Gallery or from any Concert Series members. Individual tickets may be purchased at the door.

The Christmas issue of "The Consumer" has just arrived in the centre. For those not familiar with this booklet, it is distributed free of charge by the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) and is designed to bring safety tips and helpful hints to its readers.

This month's issue deals with the hazards of riding an escalator in a large shopping mall, purchasing that special toy for your child, workshop safety, electrical overload, cutting and decorating your tree, its care, as well as some very important tips for those using a fireplace during the festive season.

To receive your copy of this booklet, or if you require help completing an application, or have a question that needs answering, contact the Haliburton County Information Centre, located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., Haliburton. The centre is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 457-2733. If you are in the Minden area, the centre situated in the Municipal Building, Milne St., is open every Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or you may call 286-4100.

Contribute "a gift of life"

submitted

Christmas is very much associated with gifts. Within the Christian tradition, it is believed that God gave His son to humanity; and that Christmas is a celebration of His gift. As the Christmas season approaches, much thought, time, and money will be spent on gifts to family members, friends, and others in our communities.

Everyone likes and needs someone to recognize her/him through gifts. Regretfully, sometimes we get things we do not need or even want. Too often, also, gifts became mere exchanges of things as well as efforts to meet a sense of obligation. Whatever the gifts or the reasons, they should be expressions of love; attempts to fulfill needs.

We, who live especially in an affluent society, tend to confuse "need" and "want". Interchangeably, we'll say need or want to relatives and friends who are considering Christmas for us. In our list of suggestions, there will possibly be no requests for drinking water, an adequate supply of food and medicines, suitable housing, basic medical equipment and facilities, and sufficient educational materials. Yet within our world community, millions of men, women and children are suffering, and many are dying because they are not getting enough or any of these basic necessities. These are not commodities. They are the "gifts of life" which everyone needs.

Fortunately, we have the HAVE Committee - a group of volunteers who are committed to assisting the very needy in developing countries. Through the HAVE funds, including the matching contributions from CIDA, the following have been provided within the past three years: (a) in India: 47 drilled wells, a gravity-fed pipeline system, a Rural Community Health Centre expansion program, and a number of smaller compassionate projects; and (b) in The Gambia: educational materials to teachers and students, and six large village wells (to be dug).

When making up your Christmas list, we invite you to contribute a "gift of life" for our desperately, needy neighbours in our global village. You can direct your contribution (via: HAVE fund) to the treasurer, Mr. John Stouffer, Box 541, Haliburton, Ont. K0M 1S0. You will get an official receipt for income tax purposes. CIDA will match your gift; and all of it will go toward a basic self-help project.

By providing a "gift for life", the meaning and the joy of Christmas are being truly realized.

May the Christmas spirit continue with you throughout the New Year.
